Feel the Himalayas in every sip

Melted by the warmth of Sun, the glacial water comes down trickling to the foothills. Then bottled raw to preserve the goodness of rare minerals gathered on the way.

Helping the Himalayas

Change begins with you. But it ends with changing the world. We started by increasing the use of clean energy in our production to save the environment. But today we have gone beyond that. We are helping the Himalayan communities live a better life.

The Cookstove Project

To change someone's habit, we have to understand their life. Most Himalayan families use wood as their cooking fuel. This impacts their health and increases pollution. To change this, we introduced them to cookstoves. It reduces smoke emission by 80% and cooking time by 50%. A simple solution to help both the environment and people.

Project Jalodari

Thriving harder gets easier when it's for a cause. Along with fighting pollution, we are raising awareness about water management amongst the locals. This directly impacts the soil and vegetation of the Himalayas. Till date, our water and sanitation interventions at Paonta Sahib (Himachal Pradesh) have impacted 20,000 locals.

Better Together

For our new offerings, we are working with partners that share our vision to beneficially impact the Himalayan ecosystem. Our spreads are made by Bhaira Jams, an organisation that exclusively employs women, giving them the means to a sustainable livelihood. Our honey is sourced from Pahadi Utpaad, which promotes traditional beekeeping methods in the Himalayan region thereby providing additional income to local farmers and enriching the quality of the indigenous flora. With our partners working alongside us, we ensure that our contribution to the Himalayas grows with us. So every time you pick up a Himalayan product, you help take us a step further in this endeavour.
